Ozark Mothers Used To Be Afraid To Go To Bed At Night

Now Sleep Soundly Since They Have Found A Sure Preventive For Croup.

Many mothers, besides those of Ozark, Mo., have been afraid to sleep by night for fear of being awakened by that dread croupy cough. Mrs. H. H. Givan and Mrs. J. J. Caye, both of Ozark, have found, in common with many other Missouri mothers, that a jar of Vap-O-Rub in the house insures a good night's sleep.

Vap-O-Rub is the external treatment for all forms of croup or cold troubles, introduced here from the South last winter. It is in salve form and you just rub it over the throat and chest, covering with a warm flannel cloth. The body warmth releases antiseptic vapors that are inhaled with each breath, loosening the phlegm, and, in addition, Vap-O-Rub is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, relieving the tightness and soreness. Croup is usually relieved in fifteen minutes, and a good application at night will, in almost every case, prevent a night attack.

But let Mrs. Givan speak for herself. She writes: "I have used Vick's Vap-O-Rub on my little girl for croup. I rubbed it on her chest and throat and it is just splendid, and I wasn't afraid to go to bed at night."

Mrs. Caye says: "I find Vap-O-Rub the best thing I have ever used for colds, sore throat, croup and all kinds of skin troubles for children. I could not do without it now, as it saves calling a doctor."

The penetrative quality of Vick's makes it excellent also for inflammations of the skin, such as burns, bruises, itching, piles and muscular soreness. In these cases, particularly in cases of burns, it seems to draw out the inflammation and has a delightfully cooling effect. Three sizes, 25c, 50c or $1.00. The Vick Chemical Company, Greensboro, N. C.

Order to Get Villa, Dead or Alive, Stands

Officials Deny Any Thought of Recalling Troops—Supplies Shipped South—Germans Active Regarding Mexican Political Questions—Persistent Rumor that Villa Is Wounded—Friendly to Americans.

Washington.—Reports that American forces in Mexico might be recalled soon are emphatically denied by Secretaries Lansing and Baker. Both declare there is no present intention of changing the orders given to Gen. Funston shortly after the Columbus (N. M.) raid, to "get Villa, dead or alive."

Border advisers that a trainload of supplies, shipped by private firms, was on its way from Juarez for Casas Grandes and Pearson, close to Gen. Pershing's field base, satisfied officials that the railroads can be used in this way as a supplementary service to the motor truck lines even without of Gen. Jacinto Trevino at Torreon and the establishment of his headquarters there. Monterey is quiet and all interior consulates report good order and friendly feeling toward Americans.

The Mexican embassy announced receipt of a telegram forwarded by Consul Garcia, at El Paso, from Gen. Gutierrez, saying that Villa bandits had been met and practically annihilated by the de facto government's forces at Chihuahua. The report added that Villa himself was wounded and his capture was imminent. No further details were given. The date of the fight mentioned was not reported.

out further action by Gen. Carranza. Although the army is not the actual shipper of the supplies, it is believed the practical result will be the same.

Germans Active in Mexico?
Interest in political questions affecting the Mexican situation was renewed by receipt at the state department of correspondence between Horst von Goltz, alleged German spy and aid of Capt. von Papen, the former German military attaché. It was understood some of the correspondence submitted by the British government dealt with activities of Von der Goltz in Mexico.

Official attention also was given to the reported revolution of Felix Diaz in southern Mexico. Information of the department of justice placing Diaz in Mexico has been laid before the state department. The latter also has unconfirmed rumors that Diaz is obtaining both men and supplies from Guatemala.

Tells of Fighting.
American Consul Letcher, at Chihuahua, in a dispatch received at the war department, through Maj. Gen. Funston, told of some of the results of the clashes between American troops and Villa forces at Aguas Calientes on April 1, and the fight between the bandits and Carranza troops near Cieneguilla three days later.

Letcher reported a persistent rumor in Chihuahua that Villa has been wounded. He said the fight at Aguas Calientes resulted in the killing of 30 or 40 bandits by troops of the Tenth cavalry, under Col. Brown. These American troops were reported as living for two weeks on beef and corn, with supplies almost exhausted. A mining company, Letcher said, had relieved the shortage by sending a special train with supplies and forage.

At the fight of Cieneguilla the Carranza forces under Gen. Cavazos captured two bandits of the 50 engaged. Letcher reported the Carranza troops were co-operating with Gen. Pershing and that Gen. Gutierrez had informed the American authorities of the Carranza troop disposition about Chihuahua.

Friendly Toward Americans.

A resume of a telegram from the American consul-general at Monterey, made public by the state department, said: "Telegraphic and mail reports from Torreon and Durango indicate a marked improvement since the arrival of United States forces."

VILLA'S BROTHER RELEASED.
Havana, Cuba.—Col. Hipolito Villa, brother of Francisco Villa, who was arrested here on Feb. 7 at the request of the American minister and has been held pending extradition proceedings, has been released. He is under indictment in Texas on the charge of complicity in cutting a railway line near El Paso last December in an attempt to hamper the movement of Carranza forces through American territory to attack the Villa forces in Mexico, but the Cuban secretary of state announced that the

GATHER NEAR CHIHUAHUA.
San Antonio, Tex.—Carranza troops were reported by American Consul Letcher to be concentrating in the vicinity of Chihuahua City. The reason for such concentration was unexplained, but officers at Maj. Gen. Funston's headquarters assumed that it was part of the de facto government's plan of co-operation in the pursuit of Villa, who, according to reports, is traveling south beyond Chihuahua.

The exact positions of the American forces were still unknown at headquarters here. A report from Gen.

Col. Dodd's Men Getting to Look Like Mexicans

Shoes Cut and Uniforms Torn, They Have Drawn on Natives' Clothing.

Columbus, N. M.—Three weeks of man-hunting through the desert and mountains of Chihuahua has totally changed the physical appearance of the smart cavalrymen who crossed the border under Col. George A. Dodd, near Culbertson's ranch. A vivid picture of the soldiers as they were four days ago was brought to Columbus with the arrival from the front of a truck train which carried supplies to Col. Dodd's command.

Men whose shoes have been lacerated by the stones of the mountains and sands of the deserts are wearing Mexican sandals, and sandals made from the hides of beavers slaughtered for their meals. Men whose clothing has been torn into shreds by mesquite and cactus are wearing such clothing as could be obtained from Mexicans living along the route, according to the stories told.

Substantiating these stories, a message came to military headquarters from Brigadier General Pershing, requesting that the extra kits containing extra clothing of the soldiers of the Seventh and Tenth cavalry regiments, the two regiments at the extreme front, be rushed to them at once.

Truck Crew Meets Dodd's Men.

A truck train under the command of Capt. C. B. Drake, consisting of 27 trucks, went to within seven miles of Guerrero, its crew being the first Americans to meet the troops of the Seventh cavalry after their engagement at that town.

"The men were a nondescript looking crowd," said Capt. Drake. "Their faces were caked with dry alkali dust. They had been without regular rations for some days, coffee, salt and tobacco were beyond price, and yet, through their haggard dirtiness, the men smiled with their eyes and told of their resolute purpose to get Villa."

Capt. Drake also told of reports current throughout the Guerrero country that the American troops obtained their information that Villa had been wounded from an American physician taken captive by the bandit band and forced to treat the leader's wounds. He said that he did not learn the name of the physician, who was said to have been a resident of one of the towns through which Villa passed, and was reported to have described the wounds as being caused by a bullet through the ankle and another in the hip.

United States had failed to produce evidence warranting his extradition.

FOUR KILLED BY BANDITS.
Tucson, Ariz.—Three United States citizens and one Spaniard were killed by Mexican bandits nine miles south of Rosario, Sonora, Mexico, according to advices received here from Mazatlan at the offices of the Southern Pacific Railroad company.

The Americans killed were F. C. Burke, former railroad agent at Morado; Roderick Davidson and a former conductor named Wallace, according to reports received here.

Pershing had reached Columbus, but its garbled condition made it necessary to repeat it.

Col. Brown's brief report, forwarded through the American consulate at Chihuahua, served to strengthen the assumption here that the American advanced forces already had reached Satevo. Col. Brown reported from Chihuahua, 50 miles from Satevo, April 4.

"Garrison" of Two Meets Scouts at Mexican Town

Women Had Fled to Hills, 100 Infantrymen on Unique Expedition Find.

In the Field With the American Expedition in Mexico (by motor truck to Columbus, N. M.)—One hundred infantrymen have just returned from a 50-mile scouting expedition, which developed several surprises.

After breaking camp the soldiers first went to the adobe town of Guadalupe, 10 miles from here. This is a place of 400 inhabitants, and none had ever before seen an American soldier. All of the women of the town fled into the hills as the Americans approached, and the men sent the Carranza "garrison" of two soldiers, to meet the Americans, and learn their purpose. The officers assured the Mexicans they were safe, and would not be molested. A few days before the people of Guadalupe had seen an American aviator fly over, and when the troops came shortly afterwards they were badly frightened.

Traverse Scenic Route.

The little expedition traveled through some of the grandest scenery in Mexico, the trip occupying four days. The scouting party hunted for Villistas, but found none, although evidence of their operations were everywhere. The men passed through the canyons La Fortuna, De Los Pinos, San Joaquin and De Laguna. The cold was intense, and frequently snow fell thickly. Often the line would wind up a canyon only 20 feet wide whose walls towered above them 2,000 feet on each side.

At La Fortuna, an abandoned mine and houses were found. A notice posted by the owner said he could be found at 44 Exchange place, New York City.

The last leg of the march, 27 miles, was made in fast time, but the men came into camp in splendid condition. Only once before during this campaign has a 27-mile march been made in a day and that was the second day after crossing at Palomas, when the Sixth and Sixteenth went that distance, 19 miles being without water. After the daily search through the mountains after Villistas, the men were allowed to divide up in squads and go hunting, as bear, deer, wolves, quail and wild chicken abound. The quail and other fowl evidently had never been hunted before, as they either flew toward the hunters in an effort to escape or made no effort to fly.

It was learned that Villa and his men, in their flight through this region, had stolen all the horses they could find.

At the Canyon de Dagua, where the expedition stopped, Villa not long ago killed several Americans, and on top of the mountain Villa hanged a Mexican, Anastasia Guadalupe, because it was alleged he had helped some Americans.

Caves as Hiding Places.

The party came across a cave at the Canyon San Joaquin that is capable of concealing a large number of men and horses, and such caves are reported around the Guerrero and Southern Chihuahua district, which would make it easy for the Villistas to hide. American troops are hunting out these caves in hope of finding both outlaws and ammunition supplies.

According to the railroad report, The Spaniard was a former conductor named Rodrigo.

The party was moving on hand cars from Acapometa to Rosario when attacked. The bandits, after killing the four and looting their baggage, compelled section laborers to load the bodies on the hand cars and bring them to Rosario station.

Special United States Agent James W. Keys took charge of the bodies and sent them from Rosario to Mazatlan, after wiring the American consul at Mazatlan.

ment, issued a decree calling for a new issue of paper money, not to exceed $500,000,000, to substitute for the present issue.
